

Seeking Letters From Laura Ingalls Wilder and Photographs of Wilder Sites

During her lifetime as an author, Laura Ingalls Wilder responded to every fan letter she received, until the last 6 months of her life. These letters were scattered to the four winds and while some have come safely to rest in museums, archives, and libraries across the country, others currently reside in scrapbooks, the backs of drawers, in musty files, and in old shoe boxes tied up with ribbon.

Please help me make sure those letters aren't lost forever. In conjunction with the Laura Ingalls Wilder Museum in Walnut Grove, Minnesota, I'm seeking photocopies of Laura letters. These would be scholarly study copies only and will be deposited in the newly built archive room at the Laura Ingalls Wilder Museum. We are also seeking photos of any of the Wilder museum sites pre-1985 or photos of any special local Wilder events, such as gingerbread parties that you might have attended. If it would be easier, you could also scan them and send them by e-mail.

Thank-you for your help and please help to spread the word.

Send photocopies to:
Sarah Uthoff
Trundlebed Tales
P.O. Box 111
Solon IA 52333

Questions?
Contact me at:
info@trundlebedtales.com
www.trundlebedtales.com

SPONSORED BY TRUNDLEBED TALES